A VERY SAD SIGHT. Two Children Drunk-One Narrowly E capes Death.

A very sad sight was witnessed in the Capitol Square about half-past 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Prone u nent was a mite of a boy, and swaying and reeling about him, and calling upon him to get up and play, was another little fellow, younger and smaller than his companion. A crowd soon gathered, and it was discovered that the child lying down was dead-drunk, and the other one was in a maudlin state of intoxication. Every effort to get out of the latter the names of himself and his playmate, where they lived, and where or from whom they got their liquor failed. As to the last question, he insisted that they had drank nothing but water.

AMBULANCE SUMMONED. Finally, the city ambulance was sum noned, and both were taken to the alms house, and on the way there the smaller boy also went into a stupor. The larger boy was for a while in a very critical condition. Indeed, it was expected at one time that he would die. The physician who answered the call for the ambulance worked upon him for some time, and it being thought that he was coming around all right, left him to answer another immons. During his absence, however, it apidly losing vitality, and the galvani the smaller boy, who either had not drank as much as his companion, or had a stronger head, was turned over to his
